

mcHF side panels

Side panels cover the holes on the both sides of the assembly. They simply plug into the opening, kept in there by the connectors on both boards.

Not much processing is needed, apart from maybe widening of the connector holes, if the fit is not perfect.

The panels should slide in, not going any further because of the limiter on the support shell.

